

Construction and Procurement Associate – Bradley Arant Boult Cummings LLP

Description

Bradley Arant Boult Cummings LLP – CONSTRUCTION AND PROCUREMENT ASSOCIATE – Washington, D.C.

Bradley's Construction and Procurement Practice Group in our Washington D.C. office is seeking to add an associate with two to four years private practice experience in federal government contracting. Significant and substantive bid protest and contract claim experience is preferred. Preference will be given to applicants with federal construction contract experience or training through George Washington University's government contracts program. The firm will consider attorneys with a federal government employment background provided it includes hands-on litigation experience. Candidates should be willing to assist on private construction and complex litigation practice areas as needed. Candidates must have excellent analytical, written, verbal and interpersonal skills and superior academic credentials from an accredited, top tier law school.
